WITH a Disco Dance Off that only dads could enter, the annual York Rise Street Party on Sunday attracted hundreds of fun lovers – and helped raise enough to buy a horse.

Organisers aimed to raise money to help Kentish Town City Farm replace its main training horse, Bailey, who died suddenly in May.

Helped by generous donations from neighbourhood businesses, including the Dartmouth Arms, Truffles Deli, Monsoon Indian restaurant, Pure fish restaurant, the Village Café, Rossella's, Pizza East, The Vine pub and Mario's Café, the target of £3,000 was reached.

Organiser Anna Kusner said: "There are so many people who help and get involved, it is impossible to thank everyone individually, but they know who they are."

"It is always such an enjoyable day out, a chance to mix and mingle with our neighbours, have fun and also support a great NW5 cause."
